Laboratory

EU Democracy in Action

Representative Democracy, Direct Democracy,
Participatory Democracy

Dr. Justus Schönlaue

European Committee of the Regions

The laboratory consists in a series of three four-hour sessions, comprising participatory workshops which will give participants an understanding and direct experience of three different key elements of the EU's democratic process, namely: (i) democratic participation by the directly elected European Parliament Members; (ii) general citizens' participation through the EU consultation processes; and, (iii) the European Citizens' Initiative, and the recently added European Citizens' Panels, as experimented during the Conference on the Future of Europe (CoFE). The workshops will be highly interactive and participative. They will give participants a practical as well as a conceptual understanding of the different elements of EU democracy.

To attend, students should register via the course's Moodle page:
