Analysing eco-social risks in light of environmental transitions: empirical and analytical insights

The Summer School on The Ecosocial Challenge: Politics, Policy, Polity offers a series of lectures and interactive activities aimed at presenting and discussing the most relevant topics, studies and ongoing projects analyzing the social consequences of environmental policies from several disciplinary perspectives (especially, political science and sociology).

More specifically, it focuses on ecosocial politics (conflicts, interests, etc.), policies (proposals, decisions, etc.) and polity (public opinion, institutional structures, etc.).
